The Parent Plus The Parent Plus (Totally Parenting) was a three-part Australian television series which aired on the Nine Network in the late 1980s and early 1990s. The series ran from 1988 to 1990 with the first series focussing on how to be a good parent and the second series concentrating on how to be a good friend. It was hosted by Jane Kennedy and featured parents and other relatives of children of different ages. The show was shot in Nine's production facility in Pymont, New South Wales, and various locations in Sydney, New South Wales. Broadcast history Series 1 (1988) Airing on Wednesday nights at 7:30 pm (Australian Eastern Standard Time) it was the first in a two part series and was also the first series to be hosted by Jane Kennedy. The premise was that those who had successfully brought up a child could teach others how to do the same. It featured interviews with parents of children, their own children and those of their friends, a play with the children, a segment on child care, and advice from a doctor. In the first episode Jane Kennedy hosted, and interviewed parents of children aged 4 to 7, and in the second episode children aged 6 to 9. Series 2 (1989) Airing on Wednesday nights at 7:30 pm (Australian Eastern Standard Time) it was the second in a two part series and it was the only one to be hosted by a non-parent. The premise was that those who have successfully raised a child could teach others how to do the same. It featured interviews with parents of children, their own children and those of their friends, a play with the children, and advice from a doctor. The series was hosted by the mother of three children, Robyn Williams, and featured interviews with parents of children aged 4 to 12. Ratings The first series was shown on 9 in the New South Wales, and Queensland. The second series was shown on 9 in the New South Wales, Victoria, and South Australia. The third series was not shown, due to the Nine Network putting the third series of the programme up for pre-approval for broadcast, which it had not done for the previous two series. It was subsequently cancelled. References External links Category:Nine Network shows Category:1988 Australian television series debuts Category:1990 Australian 82157476af
